

Humanities Options

Any one of these courses meets the humanities requirement for an AA

HUM2020 Humanities Forum

3 Credits

Description: This course is a general introduction to humanities focusing on special areas of study within the field. Through the examination of particular historical periods, cultures, or themes, the course will examine the impact of art, literature, drama, philosophy, religion, architecture, music or other similar achievements has had on human history. The course includes reading and writing competencies.

Prerequisites: satisfactory score on reading and writing placement tests

Degrees Offered: A.A., A.S.

HUM2210 Humanities: The Foundations

3 Credits

Description: This course consists of the study of life and creative expressions from their origins in early cultures of the Mediterranean regions through medieval Europe as surveyed through the visual arts, music, literature, philosophy and social history. The course examines the interaction of cultural experiences that developed and were passed on to later peoples. This course provides a basic foundation for study of all humanities courses and includes reading and writing competencies.

Prerequisites: satisfactory score on reading and writing placement tests

Degrees Offered: A.A., A.S.

HUM2230 - Humanities: Mainstreams of Cultures, 15th to 20th Century

3 Credits

Description: This course consists of the study of life and creative expressions in Europe from the Medieval/Renaissance period to the 20th century as surveyed through the interrelationships of the visual arts, music, literature, philosophy and social history. The course provides transition between the study of the early and the modern cultures focusing on the European Renaissance, Enlightenment and 19th century as they relate to other world developments. The course includes reading and writing competencies.

Prerequisites: Satisfactory score on reading and writing placement tests.

Degrees Offered: A.A., A.S.

HUM2250 - Humanities: 20th Century Cultural Perspectives

3 Credits

Description: This course consists of the study of life and creative expressions of Western culture in its relationship with other world cultures as surveyed through social history, the impact of science and technology on human values and the history of ideas manifested in the arts and letters from the beginning of the 20th century to the present. The course includes reading and writing competencies.

Prerequisites: Satisfactory score on reading and writing placement tests.

Degrees Offered: A.A., A.S.

HUM2410 - Humanities of Asia

3 Credits

Description: This course surveys Asian cultures and their creative expressions through the media of visual arts, music, literature and philosophical thought. This course includes reading and writing competencies.

Prerequisites: Satisfactory score on reading and writing placement tests.

Degrees Offered: A.A., A.S.

HUM2450 - Humanities in the Americas

3 Credits

Description: This course consists of the study of life and creative expressions in the Americas as surveyed through the media of visual arts, music, literature, philosophy and social history. This course includes reading and writing competencies.

Prerequisites: Satisfactory score on reading and writing placement tests.

Degrees Offered: A.A., A.S.

Math Options AFTER College Algebra

Either one of these courses meets the Math requirement for an AA. Choose according to your career direction

MAC1140 - Precalculus Algebra

4 Credit

Description: The major topics included in this course are linear equations and inequalities, quadratic equations and inequalities, relations, functions and graphs, exponential and logarithmic functions, systems of equations and inequalities, higher degree polynomial equations, matrices and determinants, applications, sequences, series and the binomial theorem, and mathematical proof. A review of algebraic techniques and operations as well as a review of exponents, radicals, complex numbers and absolute value is also included in this course.

Prerequisites: MAC 1105 with a grade of "C" or better, or satisfactory score on the placement test.

Degrees Offered: A.A., A.S

STA2023 - Elementary Statistics

3 Credits

Description: This course is designed to introduce students to the fundamentals of descriptive and inferential statistics with a pronounced emphasis on inference. The major topics include methods for analyzing sets of data, probability, probability distributions, estimation, confidence intervals, hypothesis testing, simple linear regression, and correlation. Students with a grade of C or better in MGF 1106 satisfy the prerequisite.

Prerequisites: MGF 1107 or MGF 1106 or MAC 1105 with a grade of "C" or better.

Degrees Offered: A.A., A.S.

Speech Options

Any one of these courses meets the Speech requirement for an AA

SPC2017 - Introduction to Speech Communications

3 Credits

Description: This course is a performance based course that provides theory and practice in interpersonal, intrapersonal small group, intercultural and mass communication. The course emphasizes the responsibilities of individuals in the communication process required by a variety of communication settings. The course explores the principles of communication, the barriers to communication, and techniques to improve communication skills. This course focuses on speaking and listening competencies and will reinforce reading and writing competencies and CLAS communication skills.

Prerequisites: ENC 1101 with a grade of "C" or better.

Degrees Offered: A.A., A.S.

SPC2065 - Speech Communication for Business and the Professions

3 Credits

Description: This course is designed to focus on developing and refining oral communication skills in business and the professions. Students will enhance basic speaking and listening skills with additional attention to making presentations, using multimedia technology, working in groups, handling interviews and meetings, and employing multimedia materials effectively.

This course includes reading and writing competencies.

Prerequisites: ENC 1101 with a grade of "C" or better.

Degrees Offered: A.A., A.S.

SPC2608 - Fundamentals of Public Speaking

3 Credits

Description: This essential course in speaking and listening skills instructs students in the principles and procedures that promote effective communication. This study includes message composition involving idea and information acquisition, determination of purpose and analysis of audience. This course also includes message transmittal involving vocal variations, articulation and appropriate levels of language usage and listening for both literal and critical comprehension. This course focused on speaking and listening competencies and will reinforce reading and writing competencies and CLAS communication skills.

Prerequisites: ENC 1101 with a grade of "C" or better.

Degrees Offered: A.A., A.S.